Three More Down As Our Fighters Sweep The Daylight Skies

RAF FIRST SPRING BATTLES

By Our Air Correspondent

ON THE EVE OF THE SPRING AIR OFFENSIVE, THE MOST ENCOURAGING SIGNS ARE EVIDENT THAT THE POWER OF THE LUFTWAFFE WILL BE SMASHED IN THE DAYLIGHT BATTLES TO COME. PRELIMINARY SORTIES BY GERMAN AIRCRAFT HAVE BEEN DISASTROUS TO HITLER.

To test out the RAF strength it has been sending a limited number of bombers in the past week or two over every part of Britain.

A very large proportion of them have never got back. Yesterday alone, nine raids were carried out, by single planes, three of them were completely destroyed.

Everywhere the enemy scouting planes have found the RAF not only ready but in force.

The skirmishes which herald the great battles have shown conclusively that no German plane can live in the skies over Britain unless there is heavy rain to hide in.

London and the rest of Britain, it is believed, is now safe from mass raids in daylight.

Not is this all. The RAF are strong enough, not only to beat back the day raid, but to sweep the Channel and Northern France clear of enemy planes.

It is significant that in their formation flights over France, our fighters have met with the opposition, and that many planes, when sighted, were shot down.

General Marshall, of the American Army, is reported to have said in a speech to the U.S. Senate in London that the RAF were the daylight skies not only over Britain but over the Channel and Northern France.

WONDER PLANES
Cecil has promised to show us what he has in mind. He has said that the RAF were the daylight skies not only over Britain but over the Channel and Northern France.

Not only is the RAF ready to meet the enemy, but it is also ready to sweep the Channel and Northern France clear of enemy planes.

40 NEW WARSHIPS MONTHLY

BRITAIN IS BUILDING FORTY NEW WARSHIPS A MONTH, SIR VICTOR WARREN, FINANCIAL SECRETARY TO THE ADMIRALTY, REVEALED YESTERDAY.

Opening War Weapons Week at Grantham (Lincs.), he said that by the end of this month we shall have completed "40 new warships."

"40 new warships" more than five times as many in any year since Naval rearmament began.

Our sailors were getting the utmost out of every ton of new construction; old ships were being replaced by new ones.

One of our destroyers spent at sea 274 days of the first year of the war, and steamed more than 10,000 miles.

One of our cruisers spent at sea 274 days of the first year of the war, and steamed more than 10,000 miles.

BRIGHTON A BANNED AREA

THE coastal area from Brighton to Littlehampton is to be banned to holidaymakers and pleasure-trippers, the Minister of Home Security announced last night.

The closed area includes both Brighton and Littlehampton and extends inland as far as the northern limits of Chancery and Chichester, including Arundel and Burgess Hill.

The ban takes effect from midnight, March 23. Restrictions will not apply to persons ordinarily living in the area, and there will also be freedom of movement for schoolchildren returning home for the holidays.

Workers who are accustomed to spend their week-ends or spare time at home with their families in the area will be exempt.

Members of the Forces on leave, visiting their homes, and people not living in the area can enter it only in the following circumstances:

For business reasons; To visit schoolchildren who have been evacuated from their homes; To visit sick or injured relatives.

A BOMBHELL
The new order will come as a surprise to Brighton, where the offer of Government aid up to £220,000 had enabled the Council to avert an increase of 3s. 7d. in the rate and impose only an additional 7d.

Representative people to whom "The People" spoke last night had not heard of the ban, and certainly not anticipated it. Recent rumours that such a ban was coming had been dismissed as groundless, and with Easter at hand there was some hope that Brighton might begin to recover a little of its lost ground.

The hotel trade remained open during the lean winter, as well as others more recently reopened, had been doing encouraging business.

Our only hope is that the Regional Commissioner may set his face to make, if not an exception, at least some concession which would save Brighton from falling back again just when it has started her uphill climb," said one resident.

"WHO'S FOR ENGLAND?"

Lay's Cry That Thrilled Lofoten

BY A "PEOPLE" REPORTER

THREE HUNDRED YOUNG NORWEGIANS, GATHERED IN A LONDON HOTEL YESTERDAY, MADE THE RAFTERS RING WITH THE LUSTY CRIES THEY RAISED FOR THEIR EXILED KING.

There were eight women amongst them—women who had forsaken their homes and their friends to join the battle for their country's freedom.

Four days before, as dawn broke over the snowclad Lofoten Isles, many of the 300 had been roused from their beds by a strange cry in the streets.

"WHO'S FOR ENGLAND?" unknown voices were calling from the chimneys of the town.

The Navy had arrived. British and Norwegian soldiers and sailors were outside. Soon the 300 were in British warships, speeding off to freedom—and revenge.

"ENGLISH ARE HERE!" Yesterday their blue eyes were alive with patriotic ardour, as King Haakon welcomed them to the hospitable shores of Britain.

I spoke with some of these brave women who had escaped from the Nazis.

Oskar told me how, when his mother came stumbling up the stairs of his home and shouted to him: "Our friends are here! Our friends are here!" he threw off his working clothes and dragged his army uniform down from the chimney in his bedroom.

He had kept it hidden there ever since the Germans had taken over control of his country.

"I said to the lord," he said. "There I can see, quite near, a warship. English sailors were standing on the beach. I rushed to them and begged them to allow me to go along with them."

"The sailor to whom I spoke told me by the hand that he called me 'Mate, and shouted 'Step lively! That's the word, mate. All the world is with me!'"

I was told, too, the German-controlled telephone and telegraph wires were cut to delay the news of the raid.

A twenty-four-year-old sergeant of the Norwegian Army, who fought with the British troops at Tromsø, occupied a place of honour in the King's hall.

He made his way from Tromsø after the British troops had evacuated Norway, reaching the Lofoten district soon after Christmas.

The British could not have chosen a better time to make the raid," he said.

Most of the islanders were still in bed, and the Allied troops and sailors walked through the streets shouting: "Who's for England?"

"There was immediate response. We could have brought many more with us if there had been time."

"I know there are thousands of Norwegians who are longing for the opportunity to join us. Those who have been left behind will be very jealous."

Most of us have already fixed up war jobs. Six are to enter hospitals as nurses. The other two will take administrative posts.

One of the women, a flax-haired beauty, was the heroine of the trip.

YUGOSLAVIA ON HER GUARD

IN THE FACE OF NAZI THREATS AND NAZI PROPAGANDA IN THE BALKANS, TURKEY YESTERDAY REMAINED CALM AND UNCONCERNED, DESPITE THE FACT THAT THE NAZI HIGH COMMAND COMMUNIQUE ANNOUNCED THAT GERMAN TROOPS, MARCHING INTO BULGARIA, WERE CONTINUING THEIR MOVEMENTS ACCORDING TO PLAN.

While inspired articles in the Belgrade newspapers were asserting that Yugoslavia would protect her independence and integrity and reports were circulating that by tomorrow the country would have nearly 1,000,000 men under arms, a B.U.P. message from Belgrade said that a German-Yugoslav pact was expected to be signed in Berlin on Tuesday.

A high Turkish political figure reiterated outlined to the B.U.P. the principles underlying Turkey's foreign policy. It was stated:

"The cardinal principle of Turkish policy is the defence of our own independence. This does not necessarily mean that Turkey will not fight until she is directly attacked, as was suggested recently by some observers, nor does it mean that the Turks will fight automatically if the Germans attack Greece."

"Turkey would take action at the moment when, in collaboration with Britain, she could make the most effective use of the special characteristics of her army and her geographical position."

The statement continued: "It is ridiculous to suppose that Turkey would waste her strength by trying to swell the German forces if they should now attack Greece."

Meanwhile, Mr. Eden's diplomatic activities in the Near East continue.

Factories Beat The Bombers
DESPITE enemy attacks on cities, factories and workshops, production has gone up every day and deliveries are proceeding faster, declared Mr. Ernest Bevin, Minister of Labour, to mine workers at Durham, yesterday.

Mr. Bevin forecast that the coal situation next summer and winter would be serious. The nation would have to produce more coal while there were taken from the industry.

"As Minister of Labour," he said, "I cannot discuss coal on the basis of Yorkshire versus Lancashire or Lancashire versus the Midlands."

"I have got to look at it as coal. It is my duty to get just as efficient organisation and production as we have in the fighting services, and if I have to make some novel innovations and changes I ask you to share the same readiness for adaptation as those who have already gone into other industries."

PRAYERS IN ITALY FOR FASCIST DEFEAT, SAYS AMERICAN

WITH untold reported spreading in Italy that the Catholic Pope had been praying for a speedy Italian defeat, the plight of the Fascist Empire became known when news reached London last night of a (first) British broadcast through the heart of Rome.

The first broadcast in Italy was made by an American who had arrived in Switzerland from Rome many years in the past.

The American influence, however, was unpopular, and had been from the African and Al-banians from the east. The Catholic Pope had been praying for a speedy Italian defeat, the plight of the Fascist Empire became known when news reached London last night of a (first) British broadcast through the heart of Rome.

£130 Homes For Blitzed Planned

A SCHEME to provide a home for the homeless victims of bombing with four-roomed bungalows costing only £130 each, was announced yesterday by a new committee formed to secure greater powers for local authorities in the effects of enemy action.

At a recent meeting a resolution moved by the Lord Mayor of Portsmouth and seconded by the chairman of Bristol Housing Committee was carried unanimously recommending the formation of a national committee to study the problem of housing and other problems arising out of bombing.

Mr. Thomas Guest, secretary of the committee, said yesterday:

While billeting after raids is accepted by workers and their families with gratitude, they feel keenly the loss of the independence which a home of their own gives them. I have talked to hundreds of people, and gather that some national plan to provide individual homes as quickly as possible is needed.

Mr. Guest said that the bungalow scheme he had in mind was a six-united men supervised by an architect.

The homes would be built of fireproof and weatherproof materials of great strength, and the scheme would be established for use by local authorities in emergency.

YOUR HEALTH

Why Air must be kept moving

Stiffness is due to still, warm, moist air. A healthy body gives off heat and moisture all the time. If in a closed room the air is not moving it becomes hotter and hotter, moister and moister, until you feel uncomfortable. This is stiffness. Stiffness leads to fainting, and in its extreme form, to heat-stroke.

Ventilation does two things:

- It keeps the air on the move.
 - It replaces warm, moist, stale air with cool, dry, fresh air.
- Fresh air from outside contains fewer germs than inside air.
- Your living-room, bedroom, shelter, wherever you work or sleep, should receive a steady inflow of fresh air while you are there. They should be flushed out with air and light while you are not there.

Try to arrange your blackout so as to permit the inward passage of air whilst still preventing the light from showing outside.

REMEMBER

Never cough or sneeze except into your handkerchief or your hand.
Wherever you are keep the air moving.
You must have fresh air from outside.

IT SEEMS TO ME— Some High-Ups Are Just Hangers-On

IT IS WONDERFUL HOW THEY ROLL INTO ANOTHER HOLE—AS EASILY AS THE BALLS AT A CASINO GAMBLING HALL... AND SOMETIMES THE SUBSEQUENT HOLE IS BETTER THAN THE ONE BEFORE.

Suppose that, in normal business, a defaulter receives the sack from a dissatisfied employer.

Old men, retired on big pensions, have been brought back into the limelight of advanced age. They have been chosen for all kinds of war time jobs because of old associations, and not on account of their present vitality.

There have been too many appointments made on the strength of social and family connections and titles, and I say that lots of selectors, for their selection of others, themselves deserve the sack.

I commend the wisdom of promotion by merit, and of fearless dismissal where dismissal is earned. I commend the wisdom of promotion by merit, and of fearless dismissal where dismissal is earned.

An Army private is confined to barracks, or lodged in "clink," for carelessness. What then should happen to officers who slip in important matters?

How should those be proceeded against who allow the namable waste of food found at some military centre?

That ought to be the penalties in the case of commanders whose units break rules of the dress and invite enemy bombers to lay their eggs over the neighbourhood?

Reports go to show frequent instances of this military negligence, and I say that no one to take the rank.

Our ships are not sailing properly, and sailors bring supplies, while incinerators stink. This war is too long, and too costly, and too many lives are endangered by negligence.

And someone in each case is responsible. That is why he holds his rank and receives higher rates of pay.

DO YOU REMEMBER THE BRITAIN AND I AMMACHINE YOU USED TO SEE OLD FATHERS IN THE ATTENDANT INVITING COOKS TO TRY THEIR STRENGTH?

Efficiency should be the cry, and to the devil with tradition, class, patronage, and class-waiting.

SKILLED WORK THAT DID IT

THESE LITAUER, the Polish Journalist, when touring the Mediterranean, was illustrating our Libyan victories by telling a story of an old Fascist who, in Italy, was forced to choose his own way of dying.

"Put me up in the air," he said, "and let the anti-aircraft guns fire on me."

"Slow down," whispered a few cowed Communists, spreading dissonance.

"No, the failure of Italian gunnery is not everything," replied the Australian Premier. "Nor was it the fact that the Italians did not want to fight."

"Yes, at last we are taking the initiative, an initiative that drove Hitler into the Balkans, where he will have to face what he always dreaded—British battle."

HOSTILITY THAT GREETED THE NAZIS

NOW, raids on the Norwegian coast have been followed by others at various points all the way from the Arctic Circle to the Spanish Frontier to the Bay of Biscay.

Why BLAME THE WORKERS?

MEANWHILE, it is the workers who must be blamed. For the collapse of France? And more of it in "The Diary of a Staff Officer."

When, on May 22, there was no French counter-attack, "Colonel Georges," I read, was no point-blank why the promised counter-attack had not been delivered.

Two BIG LESSONS FOR TODAY

IT is a keen and highly mechanised army, trained with all the knowledge now the Nazis command. It is eager to fight.

Parts of it have already been brought by a mock invasion planned on the largest scale, its methods and its spirit are the same as the Germans might conceivably do.

It behaved in a manner that delighted the Staff experts. Then, the lesson of all this is—and it must be repeated time and again—that we face, and shall continue to face, two grave perils. One is the deliberate attempt to force us into surrender. The other is an attempt at invasion, to Hitler, in the last hope of victory, must be driven.

Let us criticise the Government as we may to the content of our hearts. Let us continue in the pleasant amusement—grousing.

DOES YOUR CHILD TAKE COLD EASILY?

Is the constituted child who falls an easy prey to infectious germs? Constipation turns the body into a breeding ground for germs. Coughs, catarrhs, bronchitis and worse chest complaints are then easily caught and all the time the child is constipated these complaints are getting a firmer grasp. Your child has a stubborn cold or cough, the first step to recovery is to make sure the little bowels act regularly. But, whatever you do, don't use a strong purgative that will irritate once or twice and then leave the bowels more bound than ever.

The laxative most favored and recommended by doctors and nurses is California Syrup of Figs. They prefer it because they know it is safe and because a liquid laxative is sure to reach the bowels and use a strong purgative that will irritate once or twice and then leave the bowels more bound than ever.

ANY HOPE KING LEOPOLD AND HIS OFFICERS MAY HAVE HELD OUT MAKING A DETERMINED STAND ON THE K-W LINE, STRETCHING RIGHT ACROSS BELGIUM, WAS QUICKLY SHATTERED WHEN THEY HEARD FROM ALLIED HEADQUARTERS THAT THE FRENCH HAD ABANDONED ALL INTENTION OF LAUNCHING A COUNTER-OFFENSIVE AND OF HOLDING THE NAMUR REGION.

The French 9th Army, under General Corpas, had been routed at Sedan, and it was now becoming plain that both the British and French Armies would have to go back still further, in the hope that General Gamelin would somehow make a stand. On May 13, when news reached Leopold that he should retire, he issued an Order of the Day to his troops, who were saying harsh things about those responsible for the retreats. The Order read:

Soldiers,
Brutally assisted by an unknown of surprise stroke, strapping against forces much better equipped and facing a superior enemy, the 9th Army Corps, away from the enemy now swarming over the Belgian Army has carried out for four days a difficult series of operations, of which the success is most important for the fate of the West.

This exacts from all officers and men alike, exceptional efforts, sustained under a moral tension aggravated by the sight of the enemy, and by a pitiless invader. However fierce this fight may be, you will be equal to it. Our position improves hour to hour. Our line of battle is tightening. In the decisive days that are coming, you will be able to stiffen your courage for all the sacrifices necessary in order to arrest invasion.

The King could not but realize that his own position was fast growing desperate. Thanks to the German armor, two divisions of mechanized cavalry, he had successfully got the 1st Army Corps away from the enemy now swarming over the Belgian Army, under General de Krahe, which looked like being cut off at the rear.

THIS WEEK THE WRITER REVEALS SOME OF THE AMAZING EVENTS BEHIND THE ALLIED RETREAT IN FLANDERS, WHICH LED TO THE CAPITULATION OF KING LEOPOLD III TO THE GERMANS. MATERIAL FOR THESE ARTICLES HAS BEEN OBTAINED FROM OFFICIAL BELGIAN SOURCES IN LONDON WITH THE AUTHOR'S SPECIAL ACKNOWLEDGMENTS TO COMMANDANT LEON HEMELEERS, MILITARY ATTACHE OF THE BELGIAN EMBASSY.

GENERAL WEYGAND AND LORD GORT

in time, and it was after midnight on that eventful day before the British Commander-in-Chief arrived at St. André. Weygand, greatly disappointed, had already gone. What he had told Leopold concerning the general situation could not have been in the least encouraging, and that night, in the French Senate, the Premier, M. Reynaud, made that historic speech to a breathless audience which began with the ominous words: "The country is in danger."

With the arrival of Lord Gort, and General Billotte representing the King's Headquarters, arrived on a survey of the situation, and repeated what he had said to Weygand.

ENCIRCLED

GORT probably held similar views. If the German drive to the Somme succeeded, his own army, as well as Leopold's, would be in a desperate position. He had no option but to fight to the death or surrender. Even a child could see that. In the confusion of the position, a noose was fast being drawn around the Allied armies in Belgium, and growing tighter every day.

In an atmosphere as dark as the night outside, General Billotte, the King's Headquarters, telephoned to inform General Weygand of the situation, and the coming of Lord Gort, and to add that King Leopold would endeavor to hold out as long as possible.

France to reinforce the hard-pressed Allied troops now fighting on the Somme. French divisions, with the Germans' rapid sweep towards the Channel ports. Their only hope of salvation lay in evacuation.

CONFUSION

GENERAL WEYGAND was not long in realizing that the Belgian situation was so desperate that it might soon be destroyed owing to the continual battering being directed against the Belgians. Days later, with an escort of 500 men, he fled to Brussels for a personal conference with King Leopold to ascertain the exact state of the Belgian Army.

Pass the OXO

As important as any condiment, OXO gravy adds richness to all meat dishes—so keep appetites healthy and pass the OXO.

There is one thing you must not forget to put on your next shopping list—the famous FAMILY remedy in the OXO Family size—Thermostene Brand Medication Wadding.

With this generous-sized box in your medicine cupboard, you have ready to hand in an instant the simple remedy for the family's aches and pains, from the lumbago of old age to the chest colds of childhood.

This soft fleecy wadding has a soothing, self-generated warmth which penetrates deep into the tissues, calling up fresh supplies of blood to flow through congested arteries and relieve pressure on nerves.

Thermostene Medicated Wadding can be worn unnoticed by day or night. It is the simple natural way of relieving the agony of Lumbago, Sciatica, Rheumatism, Neuritis and kindred ailments, and the congestion in cases of Bronchitis and Chest Colds. Take this natural radiant warmth into the shelter with you, too.

Believe me, it is so. If every man, woman and child in this country were to have a box of Thermostene Medicated Wadding, we should not need to fear any serious paper shortage.

As it is, with at least three-fifths of our "waste paper" going to sheer waste, the newspapers are being forced to cut down the number of their pages and many other important industries depend on wood pulp—or paper in one form or another—are being kept on short commons.

MR. HAROLD G. JUDD, who is the Salvage Controller at the Ministry of Supply, is now doing his utmost to stimulate the nagging energies of the general public and the half-hearted endeavours of local authorities so as to make this salvage effort bigger and better than it ever was before.

Letters reach me from readers in all parts of the country, and I judge from some of these that the British housewife is feeling thoroughly aggravated.

I don't blame her! For months she has been carefully sorting out her old newspapers, her rags and bits of iron, her tin cans, her bottles, her cardboard packets, her old batteries and all her kitchen scrap and, more often than not, she has been taking her waste to the local authority's tip.

Her "waste" has been wasted. It has been tipped pell-mell into the local dustcart to be destroyed on the local dump. And that is just too bad.

"MAN O' THE PEOPLE" writes on "Things That Matter to You and Me"

Obviously the newcomers will have to be given equal pay for equal work. And "Man o' the People" cannot help thinking that the Government will ultimately feel compelled to formulate a national wages policy.

Perhaps it should have done so long ago, for it certainly does not seem fair that there should be a privileged working class any more than a privileged business or financial class.

"THE greatest good of the greatest number." That, I repeat, is the only principle by which a democratic Government ought to be guided.

It has been decided that Summer Time is to be two hours ahead of the sun this year instead of one. Most of us will welcome this extra hour of daylight, but the farming community naturally will not welcome it at all.

One can understand that. Good farmers and their men started work with the Summer dawn long before Mr. Wilett had his "cranks"; but since universally adopted, notion to put the hands of all the clocks one hour forward.

It will be difficult to fit in milking time with railway schedules. It will be hard, if not impossible, to start farm work in the dark.

But the farmers and the railways will simply have to find some other way of adjusting their lives to the picture of the nation's needs.

WASTE of all kinds has got to stop. I notice with much satisfaction that Captain Margesson, the new War Minister, has appointed a Controller General of Economy.

The need was urgent and it has been underlined by the latest report of the Select Committee on Expenditure. This mentions, among other things, that militia camps, which were estimated to cost twenty-one millions, have actually cost eighty millions!

I do not pretend to be able to read the Russian riddle or to explain what Stalin had in his mind when he authorised the Soviet retreat to Bulgaria for her "survival."

But no matter how the Balkan situation develops, there is increasing evidence of Britain's power and readiness to attack. You must all have read the thrilling and inspiring story of the Navy's raid on the Lofoten Islands.

There has been no more dashing or brilliantly successful exploit than this since the war began, and it has been made many times before.

Sea power and shipping. . . No other country will ever rule the world while Great Britain commands the seas.

With all our money and all our strength and all our heart, we have to consolidate that command and work together to achieve the pattern of victory and the new design of peace.

AS for the workers, of whom nearly three-quarters of a million will be gradually released for war industries, it is of the first importance that there should be no serious lag in the change over.

Most of them will find themselves, sooner or later, working on munitions or aeroplane parts, or whatever it may be, side by side with men, or women, now earning higher wages than they are.

THE war in Africa, says Signor Gorky, has not been easy for the Italians to fight. "They've had a perfectly good reason for that."

"What," asks an article, "are the first-order reasons?" Just this: "A day will come," says a writer, "when the world will find that the hole. That's why we must keep on digging for it."

TODAY'S PROVERBS In every task our total strength Must plainly be discerned. If we want to build a brave new world We must leave no stone unturned.

WISDOM WEEK BY WEEK True character is a sort of spiritual backbone.

"LITTLE ALFIE ON 'LITTIIE IN UNIFORM'" I told you just now, before this war started, our little Alfie went to drive an ambulance for A.R.P. work, but now he's changed her uniform and joined the W.A.A.F.s and only she isn't a pilot.

That text evokes the transferred scene for the war in a quiet place, where they had no little difference that they wanted a job with a bit more excitement than the W.A.A.F.s and only she isn't a pilot.

Well, there's justice, if you use! Puffing out his chest, our little Alfie goes to work as a driver in the Home Guard. He's playing ducks

THE WORLD ON PARADE "Land Pirates' Loot"

GERMANY, deprived of the greater part of her foreign trade by the British blockade, bolsters up her depleted income by bleeding the countries she has conquered.

● Nearly the whole of Continental Europe is Nazi looted ground. By payments for occupation, by confiscation of goods, by fines and by unfair exchange rates, the German finances flourish.

● France is the richest spoil. Since the Armistice last June she has already paid more to Germany than Germany paid her during all the years under the Versailles Treaty.

● Occupation is costing France £700,000,000 a year. In addition her industries have been looted of rolling stock, machinery, raw materials.

● Java, the largest and one of the richest in natural resources of the Netherlands East Indies, from 1812 to 1816 in British hands, being ceded to Holland as a reward of a blunder in the Foreign Office.

● When war broke out Europe, stake in the United States was estimated at 7,000 million dollars. We're so often held back by Life's melody of things from which we're afraid to part.

● It's surprising the things folk can do without and feel better for travelling light, for cluttering ourselves with possessions breeds a restless appetite. It's like plucking a man with all sorts of things that we know we can never eat. There's no end to that sort of lavishness and the display is never complete.

Let's Have A Good Dust-Up!

Says MRS. EVERYWOMAN

as little water as possible; one cloth to damp and the other to rub dry is my principle.

◆ Top part first, one room at a time. ceilings brushed down, paint washed and wall paper cleaned up and patched from the spare roll in hard places where the bed head had bumped into the wall.

◆ Curtains down, of course, and window-ledge and rings and rails well rubbed with a paraffin cloth. Rusty rings and hooks replaced and the curtains given a good blow outside on a dry day.

◆ All carpets well vacuumed, and in the room where the carpet is fitted some moth dust is scattered in the corners and where it meets the wall.

◆ Marks in the carpet are washed with carpet soap. Rugs are treated over entirely with it, using a stiff brush.

◆ Don't forget the cracks down the sides of easy chairs. You may find a lost pair of scissors or a fountain-pen at the bottom. I have before today.

◆ Give the lighting fixtures a special wash and brush up. A child's paint brush and a small pot of matching paint will touch up the knocked-off spots round the skirtings and the doors.

◆ Brick fireplaces and mantelpieces are dusted, traps, I find. A stiff brush seems to be the best weapon for them.

◆ By the way, before I do any of these things, I shall start off with clean tools. Brooms washed and dried, brushes combed out, and plenty of clean old cloths for polishing and dusting. Artificial silk, I find, is a bit of good for dusting.

Household ABC

ALTHOUGH it's much brighter and drier now, it's a bit of a bore, don't be tempted to get into lighter things too soon. And don't change rapidly into a short-sleeved top. You've been used to wearing a jumper that comes well over the shoulders.

Beware of washing your hair late in the day. You're asking for a headache.

Careful dryers are a little friction and massage helps circulation.

Dry thoroughly first with a coarse towel and then give yourself plenty of time to dry. The great heat dries the surface quickly, but it leaves the inside damp and you'll find it itchy when you get into your nightgown.

Easy on the sugar. You'll be able to use a bundle of rhubarb instead of making powder in the cooking.

Frying. Make the best use of your fat. Fry in small batches and turn often. It's better to fry in small pieces of bread, etc. quickly. Turn often. It's better to fry in small pieces of bread, etc. quickly.

Get into the habit of storing some browned breadcrumbs in a clear glass jar. Well covered, they will keep a long time in this way.

Heat some stale bread in a toaster. It will become a golden brown and is perfect for making a sandwich or for putting through a mincing machine. It's better to fry in small pieces of bread, etc. quickly.

If you have a sugar in hand, you'll save four for roasting ham, puddings, and puddings.

Jam or syrup in tarts and rolls. Jam or syrup in tarts and rolls. Jam or syrup in tarts and rolls.

Keep an eye on sugar levels. In the ration book, you'll find a list of sugar which is allowed. Keep this book close to you. It's better to fry in small pieces of bread, etc. quickly.

Waste. A reminder. Don't waste your money. Don't waste your money. Don't waste your money.

RHUBARB AND COCOA!

WHAT are you going to do with that bundle of rhubarb from the allotment? Actually it's not so heavy on sugar as you think. A little cocoa, cocoa or vanilla flavoured in the custard clears about making the most of rhubarb now. Write your recipe on a postcard and send it to "Housewife".

The People's Acne House. Acne House, W.C.2, to arrive not later than March 12. Five shillings will be paid for all recipes published. Here are the winning recipes for Rhubarb and Cocoa.

APPLE AND OATMEAL CAKES. Peel 3 oz. of oatmeal until thoroughly sweetened. Strain and dry it carefully. Skin and core 4 oz. of apples, chop them up and mix with the oatmeal. Add 1/2 lb. of sugar and 1/2 lb. of butter. Fry the cakes lightly in 1 oz. of oil. Bake in a hot oven for 10 minutes. They can be served with cream or fruit.

COFFEE POTATO SCONES. 1/2 lb. of potatoes, 1/2 lb. of butter, 1/2 lb. of sugar, 1/2 lb. of flour. Mix together and bake in a hot oven for 10 minutes.

FOOD FACTS

HUNDREDS of women have asked us for these recipes — so here they are.

Carrot and Seville Orange Marmalade
This recipe has been tested by the Research Station at Long Ashton. It yields about 5 1/2 lbs. of marmalade.

Wash 1 1/2 lbs. Seville oranges and squeeze out the juice. Collect all the pips into a muslin bag. Cut up the peel fairly coarsely and place it, with the juice and bag of pips, in a basin. Cover with 2 pints of water and leave overnight. Next morning, simmer gently until the peel is quite tender and the weight of pulp is 2 1/2 lbs. Remove the pips.

Coarsely grate 2 lbs. carrots (weighed after scraping) in a pint of water, in a covered saucepan until tender, and then mash well or rub through a wire sieve. Add the carrot pulp and the water to the orange, bring to the boil, add 2 lbs. sugar and boil rapidly until of fairly thick consistency (25 to 30 mins.).

As this marmalade contains little sugar it will not keep longer than a week or so, unless it is bottled and sealed. This may be done either by using fruit bottling jars or making an airtight seal to the jam jars with a synthetic seal which is now on the market. In either case the covered jars should be immersed while hot in a pan of hot water brought to the boil, and boiled for 5 mins. The marmalade will then keep for months.

It's a little thing but...

By steaming your vegetables rather than boiling them, you keep nearly all their goodness. If you are using a pressure cooker, you keep nearly all their goodness. If you are using a pressure cooker, you keep nearly all their goodness.

Bank Plot Charge

INCITEMENT OF CASHIER ALLEGED

ON February 25 Mr. Philip Leonard Dewsbury, chief cashier of a Birmingham branch of Lloyds Bank, had a letter saying: "If you are interested in adding about £7,000 to your bank balance and if it would not inconvenience you too much, could you meet me at Moseley, at 8.0 p.m. on Thursday, February 27, when we will discuss plans for change?"

The letter, which said it was "a sound proposition which will only be met before you once in a lifetime," was signed "A Friend."

Mr. Dewsbury kept the appointment and said he was not interested. No details were discussed.

ANOTHER LETTER

A few days later Mr. Dewsbury had a second letter, also signed "A Friend," making another appointment for March 7 and saying: "I propose to call at your bank for the biggest wage packet you can pay out. Now please don't think me mad or that it can't be done because I have done it several times since the war has been on."

The letter added that the terms of the share-out would be fifty-fifty.

Mr. Dewsbury kept this appointment, too—but he had told the police, who were at both meetings.

At the second interview Detective Inspector Milne came out of hiding and told the alleged writer of the letters that he was going to arrest him for inciting Mr. Dewsbury to crime.

The man put his hand in his pocket, and Inspector Milne found he was holding a toy gun. This story was told by Mr. M. P. Pugh at Birmingham yesterday when the alleged writer, Leslie Walter Evans, aged twenty-eight, of Blondest, Windhill, Burton-on-Trent, was remanded in custody charged with inciting Mr. Dewsbury to steal £7,000 and with using an imitation firearm to resist arrest.

SO HE CHANGED IT

Rochester, N.Y., Saturday. Mr. Anthony J. Musolino, of this city, has been permitted by the Federal Court here to change his name to Anthony J. Mason. He said he was tired of being asked "if he were Musolino's cousin."

"I don't blame him wanting to change that name," the judge remarked.—Reuter.

Hitler WROTE OWN DEATH WARRANT

WARRANT

HITLER WROTE HIS OWN DEATH WARRANT 20 YEARS AGO IN MAIN PRINCIPLES. WHEN HE PAID A REMARKABLE TRIUMPH TO THE BRITISH PEOPLE, SAID MR. HUGH DALTON, MINISTER OF ECONOMIC WARFARE, YESTERDAY.

"The English will be regarded as the most valuable allies in the world," Hitler wrote, "as long as we may expect from their leaders and from the broad masses of the people that ruthless-ness and fight which they have determined to carry through to a victorious end."

Each of them making his own individual contribution to the war effort could bring the hour of victory nearer.

Mr. Dalton, who was opening Shildon, Co. Durham, War Weapons Week, said that the course of the war would be long and hard, but the end was sure.

Allies May Spring Surprise

BY OUR DIPLOMATIC CORRESPONDENT

WHILE HITLER IS RACING AGAINST TIME IN THE FINAL STAGES OF HIS BALKAN NERVE WAR—AND A POSSIBLE OVERLAND THRUST AGAINST GREECE—UNEXPECTED DIPLOMATIC DEVELOPMENTS HAVE ARISEN WHICH MAY ONCE AGAIN UPSET HIS PLANS.

He is being forced to realise that the Russian rebuff to Bulgaria is a clear warning to Germany to look out for squalls—squalls which may hit the Nazi ship of state without warning anywhere from the Baltic to the Black Sea.

He is informed, too, that the calm confidence with which Britain, Turkey and Greece have met Hitler's Bulgarian adventure has aroused in the Nazi High Command fears that the Allies will produce several surprises as soon as the Germans try to cross the Greek or Turkish frontiers.

The silence of the Allies regarding their future plans has more disquieted the Axis, who are not only being kept guessing but by the employment of any methods whatsoever.

HITLER'S OIL GOES UP IN FLAMES! Some of the oil tanks after they had been set ablaze by the British when the Navy raided the German-occupied islands of Lofoten off the Norwegian coast.

Open Greek Letter To Hitler

"Britain Did Not Fail Us"

WHEN GREECE, OUTRAGED BY ITALY AND SPURNED BY GERMANY, TURNED IN HER HOUR OF DURE PERIL TO BRITAIN SHE SECURED AN ALLY WITHOUT BARGAINING AS TO TERMS WENT IMMEDIATELY TO HER AID.

This is the keynote of an open letter to Hitler by Georges Vlachos, published in today's newspaper "Kathimerini."

"Up to the torpeding of the Greek cruiser Helle, Greece held two signatures—the Italian, which had guaranteed her against all aggression, and the British, who came with a spontaneous guarantee of Greek integrity," Mr. Vlachos writes.

When by the torpeding of the Helle it was demonstrated that Italian signature was worthless, Greece did not turn to the other signatory but to herself and asked for your protection.

"I know from the lips of our own dead Premier General Metaxas that the Reich replied recommending us to give no pretext, not to mobilise and to remain quiet."

"So Greece turned to Britain, whose country itself was flame, who sent exultantly watching the costs of the English Channel, who then, as was admitted, had no sufficient means for her protection, answered the call."

She came to immediately without conditions, without bargaining, without papers. And a few days later, on the open front of the mountains of Epirus, Greece and the first British aid men fell.

"What has happened since? The Italian has been a man for man, by our little and weak forces."

Referring to the threat of German invasion from Bulgaria, Mr. Vlachos says: "The little Greek army, if called upon, will do in Thrace what it has already done in the Epirus—fight again to the death."

"Our guarantees are full; our stores of food are adequate to meet our needs at home; and the needs of others fighting against world control by the dictators," he writes.

Among the "Quintessence" brought to England was the Chief of Police on the island and others in the police service.

The Germans on the island had no attempt to combat the landing of the Norwegian and British forces.

Completely by surprise and were mostly slain in bed.

The only opposition came from armoured trawlers in the fjord, and three of them were sunk.
